TRESPASSING

As a tax supported institution, certain College properties may be visited by the general public, students, faculty, staff and contractors, so long as their presence does not interfere with the educational functions, climate, and operations of the College. If such interference should occur, it may be necessary for College officials to take steps to prohibit individuals from entering or remaining on College property. Based on the seriousness of the interference these steps may include asking individuals to leave College property, service of No Trespass Orders and ultimately arrest, if necessary, of individuals who fail to respond to such lawful orders of the College.
